“ Beth and I were friends in high school. I remember the day she started at the AP and Eileen introduced us. It did not take long, we became good friends like only teenagers can. I remember laughing together until our bellies hurt, I also remember holding each other while we cried. I might have introduced her Chris, I can't remember for sure.

I don't remember why we drifted apart, people just do sometimes...or maybe I did something, I simply don't remember, but I do remember that when I think of one of the most honest and caring friendships of my young life I always think of Beth. She was and always will be a special part of who I am and I am grateful to have known her and sad that she is gone.

“ I knew Beth as Bethy. I was very young when our families would go to Ocean Isles together every summer. I may not remember a lot of memories, but the ones I do are very vivid. I remember her pushing me in the tide on a float and her taking time out of a trip she took to buy and bring home a gift for me. More than these and stronger as well I remember the sense of calm I felt when I was around her. Like all was right in the world and everything would be okay. I knew she would make sure of that. To this day, for an older person to take so much time and caring of another so young strikes me as both beautiful and special. That is how I will remember Bethy. Forever beautiful and special, beyond an earthly measure. Until we meet again, I will hold you and my memories of you close in my heart.
