“ John & Family,
Thinking of you with caring thoughts Jayne was always bright & chipper when we would meet at dinners & lunches for South High Alums. She was so excited with her new home..

“ When I met Jayne I was impressed by her energy and zest for life: food, family, music, ice cream and peach bellinis. . Only later did I learn that she had been fighting cancer for many years and fight she continued to do. The last time I saw her was in September this year and she was so excited about her move.

“ So sorry to read of her passing. A delightful woman whose optimism and ability to face adversity head on inspired me. She will be missed by many.

“ God 's love and compassion are fully known to you face-to-face now, dear Jayne. God bless your family as they begin to mourn and grieve your loss. I met Jayne for the first time when she was laboring for the birth of Michel in L+D. I was her nurse for a brief time. 3 houses away and across the street. She was very easy to engage with and I quickly found out we lived on the same street. I so enjoyed being a neighbor friend with both Jayne and John. Just as I have said for my husband who passed 6 weeks ago, she has no more pain or suffering, or treatments, or visits to the James. Hallelujah!!! Rest in Joy, Jayne.

“ When first dating my husband, who was her friend and neighbor, Jayne “interviewed” me, hard, as girlfriend prospect (I think she thought she was being subtle about it). But it wasn't long before she and John told me they approved. She was like that - transparent, honest. She called it like she saw it. And she herself - never pretentious. But what most impressed me was that even though she was sick and in pain, she was still so concerned with the wellbeing of others. She made phone calls, made food, visited. She was genuinely concerned for others and gave them her love. Jayne will be missed. I will miss her. I was blessed to know her. She lives forever in my heart.

“ I will never forget my dear friend. Jayne faced cancer like she faced life, head on. She lived her life on her terms and excepted her family and friends on theirs. I will miss her love, friendship, sense of humor and stubborn persistence to live life to the fullest. Rest well sweet Jayne. Love you. Lynda Fields
