“ I am Doris Brown Huffman, and I was named after Victor's mother, Ena, as she was my mother's best friend in their young life. I remember visiting in the summer and staying in the big home with the big stairs and three floors. i remember riding the street car to the Presbyterian church where Frank played the trombone with the hymns and I was enthralled. I also remember Ena playing hymns on the piano first thing in the morning and singing along, before she began her day's activities. I also loved eating wheat bread with the spaghetti because at home we only had white bread.

I learned to enjoy the loud, happy, and friendly Italian relatives in the DeRose family. I am glad that Victor had a long, meaningful life and was loyal to his church.

“ Some of my best childhood memories are centered around Uncle Vic. He was kind, always sweet and had the best sense of humor. Six years ago in October, 2014, I had the special privilege of escorting Uncle Vic on an Honor Flight to Washington D.C. to visit the war memorials. It was a trip of a lifetime and so special to share that time and memory with him. Keep the angels entertained Uncle Vic and hold us a seat Until we meet again.

“ Uncle Victor always could put a smile on your face. When Allen and I moved to florida, he would phone and ask if I wanted him to send me some snow. Years later he sent me a snowman snow globe that when switched on, the snow swirled. He was an honest, thoughtful, considerate and generous man. Missed so much.

“ I'm a server at Worthington Christian and had the opportunity to get to know Mr. DeRose over the past few years. He and Mrs. DeRose were gregarious and outgoing to a new unsure server like myself. These past months while bound to the room during meals, I would always look forward to checking up on the both of them. I'm saddened to hear about the passing of Mr. DeRose. Condolences and prayers.
