“Barb, what will I do without you? Talk about memories. I could write a book. We sure had fun, didn't we? I guess we were friends since the first day of second grade when Sister said, 'show Judy around, Barbara'. Little did I know what I was getting into, hahaha.

There are so many songs I hear on the radio and I think, Barb loves that song. Or, 'wait'll I tell Barb what I heard today.' And a hundred other things. When our emails didn't work anymore (I still don't know why) I had to keep all of these things to myself and then when you'd call I'd completely forget what I wanted to tell you.

From OMS, to Regina, to married with children-zowie. We've come a long way, baby. I love you and I'll pray for you even when I'm sure you made it to heaven. I want to cover all my bases. (especially second base, if you get my drift). Thanks for being my friend and always sticking up for me. Thanks for the memories.
