“ Hello Mae By chance I found your voieds a month ago: you are a real inspiration! Thanks to you i left behind my cowardy and I decided to become natural it have been a month ago without ironing or blow-drying my hair, and I'm looking for new ways of stylishing it whit no heat or chemicals products. I'm not brave enough to take the decision to do the BC, but still want to take care of my hair, keep it healthy, strong and wear my curls proudly no matter what people say.It's a bit difficult here where I live because not many women take this decision and have straight hair seems to be the socially correct way also there is no conventions or group of women who gather proud of their natural hair there.I regret to say I do not know my real hair, after many years of relaxing and i don't know how to style it yet, but I will learn I already took the first step in the decision of being natural, bought a lot of organic hair products free of additives such as isopropyl alcohol or benzenes (they are amazing!) and also started to search for information about how to take care of my hair during the transition.I still feel a bit insecure but with patience it will give good results.Wish me luck on my hair journey!Lids, from Paname1

“ My thoughts and prayers are with Bryan and his family. His cousin, Nichole, is one of my dear friends and I know how close they were and how difficult this must be for her and Bryan's mom. I had the pleasure of meeting Bryan several times when I worked w/Nichole; he was always an upbeat and personable young man and I'm sure will be missed by all who knew him.
