“ I lived with my grandma and grandpa for about six months and unfortunately I was a stupid teenager. He taught me to stay healthy and be a good father he taught me too always keep working no matter what. He taught me that you would always make sure you get the job done and make sure you do such a good job that you don't have to do it again. He taught me what live was by showing me his love towards my grandmother. How he wouldn't let her open her own car door. My grandfather was the definition of a classic gentleman. And he passed those ideologies to me. I'm sorry I was such a rotten child. And I'm sorry that I didn't see you a lot before you passed. But I'm so grateful that your met my daughter's before you passed. I love you grandpa. And your life lessons will be pissed down for generations.

“Dear Pam, I am so glad to have reconnected with Scott at the Lincoln 50th reunion and to have met you at our table. I have known Scott since Clarendon grade school, and he was always one of the friendliest, down to earth, best guys I had ever met. My prayers and thoughts are with you and your family.

Scott and I were best friends at Malone College (69 & 70). He was my escort to what was called "The Twerp Contest". There were many events shared and memories made. We went camping at Lake Erie in a tent that had shrunk short, discussed girlfriends, and flirted. Later he stood at the wedding with the girl we discussed that night.
