Excerpt from "For the Fallen"

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember them.

“ I have not said much since my Aunts passing. I would like to say to all who read this that Gladys was more than an Aunt to me. She was a a friend, a guide, an inspiration and most of all the only mother I ever knew. She, along with her father, took the time to raise me and my half brother David as caring, loving, forgiving and guiding parents who were always there for us. Like her father, I was there by her side, holding her hand, when she peacefully passed from this world, on the evening of Sept 25th 2021. Gladys, I for one will miss you greatly, as I do your father. I will treasure the time together and the memories of the many trips we shared over the many years. Nothing can ever erase these memories from my heart. As I look through the many books of photographs, I find myself smiling and even laughing to myself as memories come flooding back. And then a tear falls and a lip a starts to quiver. So to the only mother ever knew, I say with love thanks , for the memories.

“ Gladys was a very special sister, aunt and friend to many. A caring and thoughtful lady, loving memories of whom will remain with me forever. Heartfelt condolences to Gladys' surviving siblings, Richard and Mary, and to her close circle of family members and friends. Special thanks to her nephew, my cousin John Newlun, for the love and care provided to Gladys as her life drew to a close. Bob Watson (Sydney, Australia)
