“ I grew up with Jeff and he and I had such fun. Jeff's blindness was not a handicap to him---it was a challenge that he met with grace, humor, and dignity. We rode our bikes and I would steer while Jeff peddled. We went hiking, and we picked berries together so the neighbors could make us pies. Jeff was a great friend and I miss him terribly. Still, I will always be inspired by his triumphs and the fact that he chose me as a friend. I am privileged to have known this exemplary human being. Through my grief, I will always try to remember that. Farewell, Jeff. We had some great times together.
