“ When you have a child, you often hear how you can never imagine the amount of love you will feel. What I wasn't prepared for, however, was how deeply I would care for my son's friends and their families, also. We haven't known Lindsay long, but her radiant spirit was quickly evident. I will miss seeing her smiling face as we pick up our boys at the end of the day, but I am comforted to know that she no longer has to fight. My thoughts and prayers are with Tony, Rocco, their family, and all of the many people whose lives were touched by Lindsay.

No words can describe how much we will miss Lindsay's sweet spirit and contagious laugh. When she walked into a room, you knew she was there. I will always remember all of the fun times we had and the fact that she was one of my biggest supporters even if it was months between seeing each other. No matter how hard her battle was, she was always more interested in my life and wanting to know the latest. I will think about you often my friend and know that you are now watching over us. We love you so much and we will see you again, soon.

“ No words can comfort us all in this time, but Lindsay fought hard and strong through it all. I am impressed by her vigilance in the fight and the love that she shared for life & her family. Her battle continues to live on in the fight against cancer through the James and all who work to strive for a cure. My heart is broken for her family and all of those who knew her. I knew her first as a neighborhood playmate growing up in Tallmadge and I was fortunate to reconnect with her through a dear friend & neighbor in Powell in our adulthood. She was loved tremendously by many because of all that she gave to others in her life. I am blessed to have known Lindsay and pray that peace can be found. Love to all her family & friends.

“ Lindsay instantly made me feel like I had known her my entire life the first time we met. We didn't know what our neighbors would be like when we moved into our first home but we soon realized how lucky we were. I will never forget her warmth, her smile, her laugh, her beauty, so many things. I thank her and Tony for trusting me to care for their precious little boy for a little time and will forever be grateful that she touched my life. You all are in my thoughts and sending prayers.
