“ From Sandra: I lived next door to Marilyn when we were kids. We continued to be good friends for years. I was always going over to Marilyn's house as a kid. I think of the kindness of Marilyn's mother giving me cookies and Marilyn listening to her 1940's records. We attended the same neighborhood church as children. I could hear Marilyn playing her piano next door sometimes. After Marilyn retired, we were able to socialize more often. A favorite lunch-time restaurant was Milanos. A very caring, supportive friend, Marilyn was a good listener, generous, giving person to other people and to me. Her love for her children was evident by how she talked about them with appreciation. To Marilyn's children and family: I'm glad you have such a wonderful mother - Sandra

“ From Sally: I regret not personally thanking Marilyn enough for all of her kindness and what she has meant to my family. I should have said these things to Marilyn herself: Thanks for being a loyal, wonderful friend to my mom. Thanks for being a person we could trust. Thanks for laughing at my humor. Thanks for being a role model of being responsible, industrious. Thanks for the extra food you gave us that you bought from the Schwann truck. Thanks for tracking down the AAA truck driver in the grocery store parking lot when he couldn't find my car. Thanks for the cokes, candy in the candy dish, Donatos pizza, chicken salad from Freeman's. Thanks for telling me not to worry so much. Thanks for a lot of fun times laughing. Thanks for being a role model of living right, of living with integrity. Thanks for your calm disposition. Thanks for caring because we knew you cared. Thanks for moral support. Thanks for speaking well of my family. Thanks for showing up in the driveway in your car to go to a restaurant, run an errand, or just to talk. Thanks for liking our cat, Petticoat, who was not a very likeable cat. Thanks for funny stories like about Ricks? Rix? your cat that had many adventures. Thanks for encouraging me to do better. Thanks for real stories about my grandparents and other relatives; how you talked to my grandma, Uncle Sanford, rode bikes with Aunt Margie. Thanks for telling me about your mother's kindness to strangers, how she fed people at her back door during the depression. Thanks for liking me when it was difficult for me to like myself. Thanks for your freindship. Thanks for being you. - Love, Sally
