“ My mother (Lucille Wood) and I always talked about how much fun Martha was. We always laughed a lot, as another writer noted, but she was also so supportive. In my mother's later years, Martha was always there when mom needed her - ready to run an errand, take her to an appointment or just stop at Friendship Village for lunch or a chat. She was also a help to me after my mother died and always insisted I stay with her when I came to Columbus. She was a great hostess, but I valued her more as a friend and a confidante. Technically, she was my cousin by marriage, but really, I just thought of her as my cousin.

“ I always loved being around Aunt Martha as she had had such a good energy around her and a wonderful laugh. I remember many times when Martha and my mom (her sister) were together and they would laugh so much, it was so contagious. So many memories of our family Christmas gatherings and other fun times we were together!!
