Years ago I had a dream a woman was saying to me “say my name Nancy Cullen” it was the wee hours of the night, and it semi woke me, so I was groggy and I softly said Nancy Cullen. She said “louder” I was so tired as it was a work day but again I tried to say it louder “ Nancy Cullen”. Again she said LOUDER so I yelled out Nancy Cullen , this time it woke me completely so I walked downstairs and wrote her name on a piece of scrap paper on the kitchen counter..

when my alarm went off at 5 am I got up had a lot of coffee and noticed the note on the kitchen counter. But no time to investigate so that evening when I arrived home from worki Thought I will google her name but as we all know there could be hundreds of Nancy Cullen in the world. So I googled her name anyways and obituaries showed up and all kinds of stuff but the obituary caught my eye immediately as she died on February 13th which happens to be the day I still morn the loss of my childhood friend who committed suicide on February 13, 1979 in Va beach Va. I still cry on February 13th. So I read the obituary of Nancy Cullen and was shocked that she had a gift. I don't know her and I live in Virginia I've never been to Ohio. I put her on ancestry page to try and let her family know. I know it sounds crazy but it happened. I have had dream come true quite a few times, usually the death and manner of death. My mother was the same way.

I don't know much about this but my dreams have saved lives.
