“ As a child, when visiting Grandma & Grandpa's house, Pam was usually there. as she was only about 10 yrs older than me. I always thought she had the coolest room, because she had all the teenaged stuff going on. Our favorite game to play with her was Mousetrap. I'm sure we annoyed her, but she never showed it. I still remember Grandma criticizing her as she was learning to drive. I also remember when she wanted to start a business with mom an call it Stichin' . . . an inappropriate name. She had the best sense of humor. I will truly miss her. Thanks for the memories.

“ It's hard to express what Pam meant to me in just a few words. We met Pam and Bill over 37 years ago and have been dear friends ever since. Pam could light up a room with her great smile and laugh and keep you smiling or laughing even when she had left the room. You can't help but smile when you think of Pam with her fun crazy outgoing personality. Remembering all the wonderful vacations, parties movies nights and just Pammie being herself. I love you my sweet loving friend and miss you!!! Cheryl (Cereal) & Brent

“ All growing up, and even as an adult when I lived at home, Mom would always be in her room at the end of the night laying in bed while watching TV, crafting, or reading. When I was younger I would lay with her for a bit and she might read to us, or we would just watch TV. As I got older I would still go in to say goodnight and spend some time talking about nothing in particular. Inevitably our dog Doc would always be with her. He would go into the room when he was ready and demand to be picked up and put into bed so he could lay with Mom. I miss those times and those conversations. She was a wonderful mother and I will miss her.

“ We first met Pam in 1980. We had not yet moved into our house in Sawmill Forest. Pam saw us at the house and wandered over to introduce herself and welcome us. As more families moved to the neighborhood she instigated our morning teas for Moms and little kids. We literally went door to door inviting people. And she and Bill hosted parties and started a neighborhood card club. Those were fun times, and Pam and Bill were the force behind them. Pam was a good and kind person, and she is missed.

“ Who could forget the wine and cheese tasting party on Burwood Street in Sawmill Forest. Literally everyone in the neighborhood attended. Bill truly worried about the floorboards giving way. What a great time. That was Pam. Such a magnetic personality. You will be missed our friend. Peace to you and Bill. We love you. Barrie and Kathy Brandt

“ When Bill asked me to babysit Stacey in the middle of an icy night so that he could see Pam, I said "She'd better be worth it." Apparently, she was. Fly high, Pammie. You will be missed.
