“ Dear Esther and Family,

I was saddened this morning to read about Dick's passing. We were both residents in the OSU Hospital Department of Anesthesiology, and he served as a great mentor to emulate when I first started. I viewed Dick as my professional big brother who was always careful, thorough, thoughtful, respectful, compassionate, and calm whenever the situation called for a cool head. He was also a genuine all-around good guy. I am certain that he not only influenced my anesthesiology practice, but also that of hundreds of residents that I subsequently taught during my 40 year anesthesiology career at OSU. It is comforting to realize that a part of Dick continues to live on in their professional lives and that he made a difference.

“ Sending love and sympathy to the entire Gemma family at this difficult time.

My latest memory of "dad" was a few years ago in Evanston. He was smiling, laughing and sharing his advice for me, a new healthcare professional. He wasn't able to walk as much as he wanted, but that didn't stop him. We giggled over how things haven't really changed in healthcare...and he was in awe of how much they also had changed. Such a fun, happy brilliant man to talk with every time I saw him...

I know he's smiling and happy again today.

May he rest in peace.
