“ Mr. Lombardi and his family were our neighbors on Reis Avenue over sixty years ago. He and his wife Jean were friends of my parents, and John was always such a pleasant and helpful man, never asking for anything in return. Our deepest sympathies to his family. We'll miss hearing his "Bah ston" accent. Christine & Joe Finocchi

“ Growing up on Whitby Square, I have known Mr. Lombardi (aka "Pop") all of my life. He was always in a good mood, never hearing him raise his voice (and Tim and I gave him plenty of opportunities!). Even when I returned to Columbus as an adult, I made it a point to pay him a visit, and as always, he was in a great mood, asking how everyone was doing.

His attitude towards everything was contagious, no matter what mood people were in, after taking and being around Pop, you couldn't help but feel better. One example of his personality was when Tim and I accompanied him one day while he was making service calls. One thing I noticed was his people skills were amazing, always making sure to listen to their request, giving suggestions as to repairs, but ALWAYS leaving them satisfied.

Pop was the quintessential definition of honor, integrity, loyalty. To say I will miss him is an understatement. Whitby Square has lost a mentor.

“ What a great man! I learned a lot from this guy. He taught me a lot about respect. He also taught me how to dig a ditch, oh the lessons learned from hard work. Loved talking about our shared hometown of Boston. Condolences and prayers to the Lombardi brothers and their families.

We were sorry to hear of John's passing. Its rare to meet a man who was true to his work and would give you the shirt off his back. John will be missed by all those who called a friend.
