“ I was old enough to be Tami's mother; I was lucky enough to call her friend. Tami had the wit of a satirist and the heart of a saint. She was wife, mother, daughter, sister and friend and she took all of those roles seriously; treating all with candor, humor and grace. I will remember our conversations with great joy. Tami, there is a candle burning for you at St. Andrew's, along with a prayer for you and your entire family; the smoke spiraling upward, a reminder that our prayers continue and you are always with us, and we, with you. Rest peacefully sweetheart, you worked really, really, hard and you will be sorely missed.
